CREWS TOIL TO REACH 16 ENTOMBED MINERS

Hold Little Hope That Men Trapped in Kentucky Will Be Found Alive

BULLETIN

By The Associated Press

KETTLE ISLAND, Ky., March 31—The bodies of five miners killed in an explosion in the Pioneer Coal Co. mine Saturday were discovered by mine rescue workers today one and one half miles from the entrance. The workers were forced to leave the bodies in the mine and immediately return to the surface without identifying them because of the density of the carbon monoxide gas. John F. Daniel, chief of the state department of mines, said today that it was a practical certainty that the other 11 miners also are dead.

KETTLE ISLAND, Ky., March 31—Spurred by the hope that they would soon reach the 16 men entombed by an explosion Saturday far back in the Pioneer Coal Co. mine here but almost despairing that any are alive, rescue workers today toiled desperately repairing the damage to ventilating system.

Word was brought [illegible] a mile and a half along the shaft late last night that the rescue crews were within 200 feet [illegible] where they believed the entombed men to be but the air was so thick with carbon monoxide that gas masks afforded scant protection.

The air was so dangerous that 15 of the rescue workers were affected last night. After struggling almost exhausted back to the mine entrance they were placed on a car that with a locomotive served as a little train to be carried to the county seat of Pineville seven miles away to recuperate.

Their places were taken by others eager to aid in the fight. In charge of the rescue efforts was J[illegible] F. Daniel, Lexington, chief of the state bureau of mines and he had at his disposal the most [illegible] rescue [illegible] of experts from the state bureau [illegible] from [illegible] companies and from the federal [illegible]

SECOND LIGHT FRANCHISE UP

C. D. & M. Electric Company's Rate Schedules Here Expire

RENEWAL IS EXPECTED

City Council To Take No Immediate Action on New Contracts.

A second franchise held by the C. D. & M. Electric Co. with the city of Marion expired today. It granted the company the right to furnish electric current for domestic use.

On Jan. 31 the franchise to furnish current for Marion street lights expired.

Although both instruments have expired city council is taking no immediate action to grant new franchises other than to consider rate schedules embodied in a tentative franchise submitted by W. P. Molony, president of the company.

Domestic Rate Not Drawn

No schedule for proposed domestic rates has been submitted, officials said this morning.

According to R. G. Smallwood, chairman of the committee now considering the city street lighting franchise the proposed rates are slightly higher than former rates. Other cities are demanding and securing lower light rates for neighboring cities, officials report.

Domestic and street lighting franchises will probably be renewed simultaneously for a period of 10 years according to officials.

It is expected that little or no mention of special contracts held by the city will be embodied in the street lighting franchise.

Agree on White Way

The electric company has agreed to furnish the city white way lights at a rate of $7 a month for those burning all night and $5 a month for those burning until 11 o'clock at night. This agreement was reached when East Center st. lights were installed last year.

Although city council is meeting in special session tonight little or no mention of the franchise is expected. The committee has had but one meeting with the officials of the company and that regarded solely the street lighting franchise.

GAS FUMES GATHER IN CELLARS, CLAIM

Vine St. Residents Protest to Officials. Send Samples For Test.

[illegible] gasoline fumes [illegible] have been sent to Columbus where they will be analyzed. Action [illegible] the gas will be taken [illegible] its source is located, city officials said.

Complaints have been made that the gas has affected houses on South Vine st. within a short distance of Church st. Possibility of escaping gasoline from a filling station at the intersection of these streets was one of the explanations suggested by officials.

The fumes apparently fill the sewer pipes and back up into the cellars through cellar drain pipes.

Hawks Making Progress in Motorless Plane Trip Across Country.

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz., March 31—Poised here after a bumpy [illegible] mile glide over the first lap of his San Diego-New York tow-glider flight, Captain Frank Hawks, noted aviator, made ready today to take off in his motorless plane for El Paso, Tex., for his second overnight stop.

The transcontinental glider pilot cut loose from his tow-plane over Tucson at 7:20 o'clock last night, just 10 hours and 40 minutes from the time he left San Diego, Cal.

Bobbing around like a cork ship on a stormy sea, the windriding flier guided his frail plane from Phoenix through a stiff gale and landed here after dark on a strange field marked only by the glare of automobile headlights. In the hop from the coast city, Captain Hawks made two landings—one at Yuma, Ariz., to refuel the tow plane, and again at Phoenix, where the first transcontinental air train crew ate lunch.

Today's hop called for a [illegible] stop at Lordsburg, N. M. [illegible] of between 4,000 and 8,000 feet [illegible] necessary in order [illegible] rugged mountain areas [illegible] Arizona.

SIDNEY, Neb., March 31—Despite the use of serum rushed by airplane from Denver, two children are dead here and their parents are in a critical condition. They are believed to be victims of food poisoning.

Audrey, 4, and Russell Crowe, 8, children of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Crowe, farmers living near Peetz, Colo., are the two to die. Physicians held little hope for the father's recovery.

Capt. Arlie France of the Colorado National Guard flew here with serum after doctors had wired medical supply houses throughout the middlewest.

The food which is believed to have resulted in the twin deaths, was eaten by the family Saturday afternoon.

FIRE WRECKS HOUSE, DAMAGES $3,500

West Fairground St. Residence Burns at 6 O'clock This Morning.

Fire destroyed the residence of Hugh McCloskey, West Fairground st., near Fountain st., at 6 o'clock this morning. Damage amounted to $3,500 according to Fire Chief F. J. McFarland.

Possibility that the fire was of incendiary origin was accentuated by the fact that all six rooms of the house were blazing when firemen reached the place and that no one had been living in the house for the last few days.

Both Mr. and Mrs. McCloskey have been out of the city for some time. Officials believe that the house might have been looted, and then set fire to destroy clues.

The only other possible origin of the fire would have been in defective electric wiring, Chief McFarland said.

All six rooms and their contents were consumed by the fire, although a part of the house remained upright. The house is a total loss.

Firemen of companies No. 1 and 2 spent three hours battling the fire. Approximately 1,000 feet of hose were connected in a single line from a hydrant on the border, which is outside the corporate limits of the city.

At 9 o'clock Sunday morning fire originating in an electric motor at The Inn, owned by M. T. Decker, 124 South State st., partially destroyed the motor. Damage was placed at $20. Companies No. 1 and 2 extinguished the fire.

A chimney fire at the home of F. S. McNay, 812 North Main st., did $2 damage at [illegible] o'clock yesterday morning before firemen of company No. 2 extinguished it.

An overheated furnace started fire in the home of John G. [illegible], [illegible] Olney st., Saturday morning that did $10 damage. Companies No. 1 and 2 answered the call.

SHE THOUGHT:
"We'd squeeze you in somehow—if it weren't for 'B.O.'"

Yet, to be polite,

SHE SAID:
"We'd give you a lift if we weren't so crowded."

Another invitation lost
...all because of "B.O." (Body Odor)

PEOPLE all agreed he was a nice chap. But somehow they never had room for him. The car was already filled. The bridge table already arranged. A dance already promised.

Then one day he discovered his trouble. "B.O."—body odor. At once he adopted a simple precaution. Now he's welcome everywhere. He knows the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

A risk we all run

People won't tell us when we're guilty of "B.O." They merely avoid us. The offender is the last to realize his fault because we so quickly become used to an ever-present odor. But remember, pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily—even on cool days.

Why risk offending? Adopt this easy pleasant way to be safe. Wash and bathe with Lifebuoy. Like millions of other particular men and women, you'll say it's the finest toilet soap in the world. Leaves you glowing with freshness and healthy vigor—gloriously, satisfyingly clean. Lifebuoy's creamy, abundant, antiseptic lather cleanses and purifies pores—ends every trace of "B.O."

Radiantly fresh complexions

"A wonderful complexion soap!" say thousands of delighted women. Lifebuoy's deep-cleansing lather gently frees clogged pores of impurities—makes dull skins bloom with healthy, radiant beauty. Its pleasant extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies.

Action Without Harm Whenever Constipated

Here's a way to be rid of constipation and its misery that works quickly, effectively, but gently.

A candy Cascaret at night — the next morning you're feeling fine. Breath is sweetened; tongue cleared; biliousness, headaches, dizziness, gas vanish. Repeat the treatment two or three nights to get the souring waste out of your system. See how appetite and energy return, how digestion improves.

The action of Cascarets is sure, complete, helpful to everyone. They are made from cascara, which doctors agree actually strengthens bowel muscles. All drug stores have the 10c boxes.—Adv.

Daily Proverb—"When advised to adopt a new fashion, remember the fox without a tail."

Aha! "The Life Story of Rudy Valee" is being syndicated! Life is never without its thrill!

"America is too rich to be loved," says Owen D. Young. "She is well off enough to be envied." Another version of that old one, "The poor ever envy the rich; the rich never the poor."

Owing to two years of drought in one district of Australia, sheepmen are unable to give their sheep away, one who recently sold 1,760 head at thirty-five cents a dozen being the envied of all. Think what the volume of the cries for relief from legislators who capitalize on the misfortunes of our agriculturalists and stock raisers would be, were a similar drought situation to develop here.

No matter what rivalry in warship building may result in the event of the failure of the London five-power naval conference, it's easy to figure from American, English, French and Italian comment on the feat of the Europa that there is going to be red-hot competition in commercial shipping.

A survey covering about one-fourth of the radio dealers of the United States shows sales in 1929 aggregating $135,845,635. Multiplying this amount by four gives us something of an idea of the amount expended last year for the privilege of "tuning in."

A Paris court has upheld the ban placed on a woman athlete over there who was barred from membership in a women's athletic association for the reason that she wore men's trousers when competing in various sport events. Why doesn't she take 'em off? The French are not given to criticism of a little thing like that.

Duchess Olga Leuchtenberg, who last year purchased an immense forest at St. Leonhardt in the Lavant valley and took up her residence in the famous castle "The White Lady," has made a declaration of bankruptcy, setting her liabilities at $4,000,000, caused by the heavy expense of maintaining the estate. We don't blame her a bit. If our liabilities ever ran up to a total such as that, we are frank to say we would feel justified in seeking relief from the courts

Frame-Up on Motorists Charged.

That a school bus, or a vehicle alleged by those making use of it to be a school bus, is being "planted" along the Columbus road down in Delaware county to catch motorists has been so often charged without attempt at public refutation of the charge that the conclusion is easy that a "frame-up" is being worked on the motoring public.

The method which it is charged is being pursued is to plant a bus along the highway and park behind it a high-topped car or truck to obscure the view of the motorist who approaches it from the rear. The driver who fails to stop his car when he reaches the bus is pursued, placed under arrest, and taken back to Delaware, where he is charged with passing a school bus, there being a legal penalty in this state for passing a school bus when it is taking on or letting off passengers. The customary fine and costs are assessed against the motorist, who pays rather than lose time and money fighting what he believes to be a hold-up under color of the law.

In the last case to come to public notice, that of a well-known local citizen, the fine assessed was $10 and the costs, $8.70, a total of $18.70 for passing a bus, which he says appeared devoid of both passengers and a driver.

The fact that Delaware county has for years had an unsavory reputation among motorists owing to the fact that it has been the scene of various traps to catch motorists, adds to the suspicion that a game is deliberately being worked on them.

The matter is one which should be investigated by the state automobile association. If motorists are arrested for driving past school buses while they are letting off or taking on passengers, no fault can be found. But if a school bus, or some vehicle held out to be a school bus, is operated outside the regular course of employment of school buses—that of carrying pupils to and from school—to mulct motorists for fines and costs, action should be taken against the offenders. Certainly there must be some course which may be followed to bring about the penalization of those who, taking advantage of a law work a game to hold up the public. The warnings which have been issued out of Columbus and locally may work protection to motorists, but they do not penalize a practice so despicable as this one charged.

Opposes Transatlantic Stunt Flights.

It is very probable that the public is quite generally in accord with Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics, in his estimate of transatlantic plane flights as sporting proposition, and is [illegible] enthused than he over the five already announced for the coming summer, four which are to be eastward attempts and the fifth, an attempt to cross from Europe to America.

Secretary Young is of the opinion that flights across the North Atlantic in heavier-than-air machines can not be of very great value in the present development of aircraft of that class, and that for the present there is little to be gained from attempts at such flights. So long as the entire load capacity of the plane is consumed by gas, oil and equipment, he holds, the use of planes commercially in flights between North America and Europe can not be justified. "Constructive thought and plans for overseas service in an economic way," he says, "have replaced 'stunt' flights, and notable advances may be expected during the next two or three years along these lines." Until such developments come, he says, there is little to be gained by adventurous flights.

"Obviously," he says, "any type of aircraft which is employed in a commercial route must provide a pay-load capacity consistent with the operating cost. In the transoceanic service it must also be capable of sustained flight of unusual duration. And this is true even though certain intermediate landing facilities may be provided.

"With the present type equipment, therefore, it seems apparent that for the relatively near future, at least, such service probably will be limited to dirigibles of the rigid type rather than airplanes, except, of course, in shortwater crossings, such as are involved between North and Central America, where the airplane already has proved its practicability."

Mr. Young might have pointed out in support of his contention, that the heavier-than-air machine has not yet reached a stage of development in which it meets the demands of commercial flying, that of all the attempts to cross the North Atlantic in an airplane thus far made but one attempt resulted in a successful reaching in sustained flight of the destination fixed. Some of the planes and their crews were lost at sea, some were lost at sea but their crews rescued, some were lost in fogs and storms over land, some crashed on land far from their goals. Of all such flights, but one successfully reached its goal without deviation from the general course planned, and it was flown by an intrepid genius possessed of a remarkable sense of direction. And he, to lessen his load, carried nothing but gas and oil, save a few sandwiches and a bottle of water or coffee. That flight blazed the way. It demonstrated that the feat of flying from the United States to the European continent was possible. Until further plane development such flights can be no more than stunts. They can do no more for the cause of aviation than has already been done. They can in no way justify the hazard which attends them and they should be discountenanced generally. Transatlantic stunt flying has already exacted a toll of dead utterly out of all proportion to what the art of aviation has gained from it.

France claims to have reduced her army forty-four per cent since 1913. She just naturally had to do something like that to give civilians and visitors in her larger cities a chance to make use of their streets.

Contrary to reports that Senator Grundy, of Pennsylvania, might retire, announcement has been made that he will be a candidate for the Republican nomination to succeed himself. Naturally Mr. Grundy wants to be in a position in which he will be on an equality, in discussing legislation, with the senators from the "backward states."

What would we have thought, three or four decades ago, of the veracity of a man who would hold out that he possessed the ability to direct sufficient energy through the air to turn on the lights of an exposition 11,000 miles away, as Marconi did, a day or two ago, when he lighted the lamps at the Sydney exposition in Australia from his yacht anchored off Genoa, Italy? We certainly have moved along in recent years.

Talk at $1,000 a Minute.

Will Rogers talked over the air last night for twelve and a half minutes, for which his compensation is said to have been $12,500. It was the introductory offering of a series of fourteen, the agreed reward for each of the thirteen to come being $5,000.

While it is very probably true that Mr. Rogers gave much more time to investigation and preparation than was consumed in the delivery of his talk, he was paid for the actual time of his contact with the public ear at the rate of $1,000 a minute.

There will, no doubt, be general agreement among those who listened in that there was something more than wise-cracking in his talk following the introductory hogwash; that in it there were wit and humor, some clever thrusts, some good sound sense and some philosophy, but it is safe to say that there will be [illegible] general agreement that it hardly [illegible] a minute.

[illegible] Mr. Rogers [illegible] recompense [illegible] the manifestations [illegible] American weakness which [illegible] those who have gained [illegible] the amusement world, or had [illegible] out of all proportion to the worth of their efforts.

There have been many and varied diagnoses of what is the matter with [illegible]. Perhaps we have in the unequal measure of reward for accomplishment one of the most serious defects in our economic system. The last obtainable figures show the per capita wealth of the country to be $2,918. There is something wrong when an entertainer can command for a talk of less than a quarter of an hour four times as much as the average man can accumulate in a lifetime.

Painful Spasms.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

"Tic Douloureux" is a French term meaning "painful spasm." It is applied to a form of neuralgia in the face.

It is quite distinct from the ordinary neuralgia. It involves the parts of the head supplied by the "trigeminal" nerve.

This nerve, as its name indicates, divides into three branches. One branch goes to the end of the nose, the eyelids and the forehead. Another goes to the upper lip, the cheek and temple. A third goes to the skin of the lower jaw and the area in front of the ear.

You will see that this nerve, through its branches, supplies the whole face. Not only does it give motor power to the muscles located in this region, but it also supplies the sense of feeling. Wherever these branches extend, there are the locations of the excruciating pains which accompany this ailment.

When the nerve becomes overstimulated, there is a twitching or contraction of the jaw and face. Acute pain is felt in that part supplied by the affected branch of the nerve. The pain usually attacks the eyeball and is felt over the eye.

It is an ailment more commonly met in people over forty than among the young. Diseases of the teeth, and jawbone may be responsible for this trouble. If the antrum, that hollow space in the bone under the cheek, is involved, here is the source of the trouble.

Overwork and loss of sleep, a rundown condition, or exposure to wet and cold may bring on this condition. It may last only a day or two at a time, or it may continue for several weeks. It may not occur often, long intervals of comfort being experienced. The attacks come on suddenly.

The symptoms are very pronounced. There are severe, cutting, shooting and dagger-like pains. The first symptom may be located in the side of the nose and the upper lip. The pain extends to the cheek, eye and temple, into the teeth and all over the one side of the head.

Sometimes the muscles of the face twitch and contract. The patient runs down under the terrible pain. He loses sleep and there is always the dread of other attacks.

None of the usual hot applications or other treatments in cases of ordinary neuralgia seem to have any effect on this condition. Drugs should be taken only under a competent physician's orders. There is always the danger of contracting a bad habit if self medication is used.

Various operative measures have been used. The pain is so acute that patients would resort to almost anything to end the suffering. Removal of a section of the nerve has been done. Another treatment is to inject alcohol into the nerve itself. This procedure has given relief, at least, temporarily, and anything that affords relief from such suffering is worth while.

Editorial Opinion.

THE "LOST" PLANET.

The skepticism of some of the British astronomers regarding the discovery of the "ninth" planet, and the suggestion by them that the observers at Flagstaff may have been misled by a vagrant comet, need not be taken over-seriously for the moment. The announcement from the Lowell observatory came after months of study by competent and careful scientists, and the report should stand until and unless it is definitely proven erroneous.

Nevertheless, the remarks of the doubting Thomases in England serve to recall one mistaken announcement of a planetary "discovery," which was made back in 1859, when facilities for making observations were relatively primitive, and which was accepted for quite a while.

In the year mentioned, a French physician named Lescarbault, living at Orgeres, saw, or thought he saw, a black ball crossing the face of the sun, and for reasons which seemed to him good and sufficient, concluded that he had detected a planet rotating inside the orbit of Mercury. He called his "find" Vulcan, and later on sent a letter to the astronomer, Urbain J. J. Leverrier, who first figured out the probable position of Neptune, telling what he thought he had found. Leverrier was highly unbelieving and at best rather scornful, but later on, in a personal interview with Lescarbault, congratulated him upon having "added a new planet to the solar system."

The "discovery" was announced with the prestige of the Leverrier name behind it, and was widely accepted as authentic. Even the distance of the body from the sun and its period of revolution around that star were estimated.

But, alas, from that day to this, Vulcan never has been seen, and modern astronomers incline to the conclusion that its "discoverer" was misled by a sun spot, and that if an intra-Mercurial globe exists, it is very small, probably not more than thirty miles in diameter, and consequently of no more consequence than one of the asteroids.—Detroit Free Press.

TO SPEED BAGGAGE EXAMINATION.

Examination of the baggage of returning travellers, particularly during the season of completely-filled steamships, has long been a vexation both to passengers and inspectors. The rigid requirements for the filing of declarations, the hundred-dollar limit on the free entrance of purchases made abroad, the conversion of value from foreign to American money—these are among the difficulties it is now sought to overcome. The secretary of the treasury has taken up the matter and has appointed a committee of citizens to make suggestions for improving the service. Mr. Mellon makes it clear that he does not contemplate any reorganization of the customs staff. The difficulty is not with the personnel, but with the conditions under which it works.

Several of the suggested changes would obviously be improvements. The simplification and clarification of the instructions issued aboard ship, movable barriers on the docks and benches for the baggage, and possibly an examination before port is reached would no doubt greatly add to the convenience of all concerned. This last expedient might be less easy to carry out than the others. In the case of crowded liners little could be accomplished between quarantine and the dock; and to have inspectors in any number make the whole trip would involve some confusion as well as expense. Better arrangements at the docks would probably be an adequate means of doing away with such long delays as are now usual, especially if the declarations were less involved in technicalities.

Apart from all questions of detail, Secretary Mellon's idea is a good one. The committee should be able to aid him in carrying it into effect.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Dinner Stories.

The Word of God.

For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.—Romans 8:38, 39.

Prayer: Jesus, lover of my soul, let me to Thy bosom fly.

The Origin of Species.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

Did you ever try to read, understandingly Darwin's famous work having the formidable title, "On the Origin of Species by Means of Natural Selection, or the Preservation of Favoured Races in the Struggle for Life?" If you have not, I shouldn't advise you to tackle it with the idea of mastering its contents in a few hours. A book which embodies the results of many years of painstaking research and profound thought by one of the greatest brains of his age can not be digested in a jiffy.

Darwin had two great supporters who did yeoman service in explaining, elucidating and simplifying his ideas. One was his brilliant disciple, Thomas Huxley, who pronounced "The Origin of Species" one of the hardest books to master. The other was Samuel Russell Wallace, who independently arrived at the same theories as Darwin, and which originally appeared in the form of an essay entitled "The Tendency of Varieties to Depart Indefinitely from the Original Type."

This essay was sent by Wallace to Darwin, who immediately recognized in it an admirable abstract of his own then unpublished work! Like the great scientist and impeccably honest man that he was, Darwin published simultaneously Wallace's essay and an abstract of "The Origin of Species."

A questionnaire on "The Origin of Species," submitted to the man-in-the-street, would find a very mixed reception. Comparatively few people would be able to answer the questions intelligently. Most people know comparatively little, in an accurate way, about Darwin's great theory. They are content to "leave it to George."

One of the best brief attempts to explain the origin of species was put forward by Wallace himself. It is explained in the form of a sort of a table, which is accurately reproduced here:

PROVED FACTS AND CONSEQUENCES.

1. Rapid increase of organisms.
2. Total number of individuals stationary.
3. Struggle for existence, the deaths equaling the births on the average.
4. Heredity with variation, or general likeness with individual differences of parents and offspring.
5. Survival of the fittest, or natural selection—i. e., on the whole, those die who are least fitted to maintain their existence.
6. Change of external conditions, universal and unceasing.
7. Changes of organic forms to keep them in harmony with the changed conditions, and as the changes of conditions are permanent changes, in the sense of not reverting back to identical previous conditions, the changes of organic forms must be in the same permanent and thus original.

This is clear, lucid and understandable. The question often arises: How rapidly may organisms actually multiply? On one occasion Huxley computed that if a plant required one square foot of ground to live, and it were given a "fair field and no favor," it would produce in ten years, if bearing only fifty seeds a year, properly scattered, the following appalling number of plants, assuming that none died: 1,953,125,000,000,000!

It is one of nature's miracles that the total number of individuals of any species remains, on the whole, fairly constant. If there 10,000 plants of certain sorts on a wild area and each plant produces 100 seeds, we do not get the next year 1,000,000 plants. We may get 9,500 or 10,500, say—indeed, roughly 10,000!—Copyright, 1930, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, March 31—Diary of a modern Pepys. Early to the station to meet a [illegible] and a richly eyebrowed lady with a lorgnette asked me to help find a parrot which escaped from its cage and it was found along Forty-second street, strutting amusingly and followed by a crowd.

Home and came Cornelius Starr, the insurance man, and we talked of far-away corners he had visited, in especial Siam and Borneo. So at my scrivening and finished my stint with scarcely any effort soever which is always stimulating. And chatted awhile afterward with "Duke" Herrick, the park commissioner.

In the evening to Mulberry street with my wife and Justine Hall to dine at an Italian cafe and a gentleman at the next table with a lady began to weep, being fozed, and saying his wife made a good home and he had no business philandering. So the lady wept too, and both lurched out still weeping and hiccupping.

A taxi swung in and the driver reached out, handed him a paper dollar—and shot away.

He never found one that appealed to him particularly.

Those of us whose boyhood memories are of a waddling, scowling and flat-footed neighborhood cop are a trifle amazed at the modern Chesterfield who patrols in New York. The cop was once the natural enemy of every boy. Today he is young, trim and athletic. On the East Side he is a pal of lads who play in the streets. This morning I saw one in an abandoned lot helping boys choose sides for a game of baseball. This is perhaps not in the police regulations, but should be.

The Way of the World

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

A hard-working expression, quite inaccurate, is this: Human nature is all alike. The inference is that people do not differ greatly. The fact is they differ remarkably. They differ so much that sometimes one is led to believe some humans belong to a different order in the animal kingdom. You can not tell what your reaction to an impulse or a situation is going to be because you have observed the reaction of some one else to the same situation. There are people who love the sea and those who love the hill country. And there are those who love the flat country best of all. The writer wouldn't trade ten miles of winding road in a fair level country for an ocean and a chain of mountains.

We all differ. Our problem is to make the best adjustment to life—for ourselves—of which we are capable. We are not called upon to live life for anybody else or to tell anybody else how to live it.

Child-training experts tell us that stubbornness in children reaches its peak at the age of two. Being short on language, about the only tool of expression the two-year-old has is the word "no." Stubbornness is one of those characteristics that run all the way through childhood to old age. It isn't confined to children. It can be dealt with. It is an unfortunate trait in grown-ups. Note that it is really a child's failing. When you observe it in men and women you may conclude they are not entirely grown up.

When MacDonald, prime minister of England, mounted the platform in the United States senate and talked face to face with the men who make the laws of the United States and who have it within their power to declare or not to declare war, he made a tremendous contribution to the cause of peace and international understanding. The question now arises if this same procedure could not be worked out among all civilized nations. Why wouldn't it be a great force for peace to have the heads of governments speak from time to time directly to the law-making bodies of other governments? The congress of the United States would gladly give the head of every government in Europe a cordial reception and an earnest hearing in any critical situation.

JUSTICE DENIES HE OPERATES TRAP

Official Says He Has Been Complimented by Governor on Enforcement Record.

Added weight had been given this morning to reports that a "trap" to catch motorists is being operated in Delaware county.

Belief that the law requiring motorists to stop automobiles when approaching a school bus which has stopped to take on or discharge passengers is being enforced in an overzealous manner was expressed by Lester Riddle, secretary of the Delaware Chamber of Commerce and by Marion Auto club officials.

Attention was centered on the "enforcement" tactics of a Delaware constable when C. B. King, president of the Ohio Manufacturers Association and vice president of the Marion Steam Shovel Co., was arrested there Friday and fined $18.70.

Chauffeur Arrested

Harry Shuster, chauffeur for J. F. Prendergast, also of this city, was arrested on a similar charge there two weeks ago and fined a like amount.

According to reports from both of these men, the bus was apparently not discharging or taking on passengers when they passed it. C. B. King reported that he could see no one in the bus when he passed.

Delaware officials and citizens have attempted to halt the practice of wholesale arrests and fines in the justice court of George Caylor, according to Riddle.

Interviewed on the telephone Saturday, Justice Caylor denied that a "trap" was being operated there, and said that he had been congratulated by Governor Myers Y. Cooper for enforcing the law.

He said Cooper's car was stopped and the chauffeur arrested on a charge of passing a school bus a week ago last Saturday. He said the fine had been paid.

HUNT CONTINUES

Dragging Pond Resumed in Quest of Horst Body But Expect No Results

By The Associated Press

WOOSTER, O., March 31—Although convinced that the search for Melvin Horst, missing four-year-old Orrville boy, again has followed a blind trail, officials planned to resume draining the Orrville Country club pond for his body today.

Rush D. Hiller, Canton, former sea diver, was to drag the remainder of the pond today. So far, he has found no trace of Melvin's body, hunted in the pond as a result of another story by Charles Hannah, charged with first degree murder in connection with the mystery. A rope was found which at first led authorities to believe Hannah might have been telling the truth when he said he had bound the child, but later they placed no value on the discovery.

THREE DIE IN FEUD

Kentucky Highway Scene of Gun Battle Caused in Family Quarrel.

By the Associated Press

BROWNSVILLE, Ky., March 31—A man and his two nephews who used pistols to settle an altercation are dead and the son-in-law of the elder is in jail today as the result of an affray yesterday on a highway about eight miles north of here.

In a fusillade that followed a dispute said to have started over the son of the elder man, the latter, James Stroud Merideth, 42, fell dead, and then Merideth's son-in-law, Curley Johnson, 25, shot and killed the nephews, Isaac Duvall, 32, and Floyd Duvall, 26, his brother.

Johnson, brought to jail here, told officers "It's hard to tell who fired the first shot," and declared he fired only when the two Duvalls had fired twice at him.

Johnson told Sheriff James Reed that the altercation was over an offense said to have been committed by Merideth's son, but would not go into details.

Dague May Hear Jury Verdict in Murder Case Tonight.

By The Associated Press

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 31—Walter Glenn Dague, former Wheeling, W. Va., automobile salesman, may know tonight whether his fate will be that of Mrs. Irene Shrader, the woman he joined in a career of crime.

The jury was expected to begin deliberations on the first degree murder case against Dague, charged with slaying Corporal Brady Paul, of the state highway patrol, before nightfall. There remained only the final arguments of opposing counsel at today's session of court.

Mrs. Shrader, former Wheeling waitress, was convicted of the same killing a week ago last Friday and was sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Announces Candidacy for Democratic Nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

COLUMBUS, O., March 31—The Democratic ticket took definite form today with the announcement that William G. Pickrel, of Dayton, president of the Ohio State Bar association and veteran political campaigner, would be a candidate for lieutenant-governor.

Pickrel, who withdrew from the governorship race last week in favor of George White, of Marietta, is expected to be unopposed on the Democratic ticket.

He and White are said to be the candidates who will be backed by the Democratic state committee.

Two other candidates, Stephen Young, Cleveland attorney, and Dan Gallagher, Cleveland newspaperman, are in the gubernatorial race also.

To Authorize Increase in Goodyear Common

AKRON, O., March 31—Issuance of additional common stock in a quantity more than sufficient to treble the total outstanding was expected to be authorized at the annual meeting of stockholders of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., scheduled here today.

Plans for the stock issuance have been prepared by the present directorate of the company.

Explaining the proposed issuance, P. W. Litchfield, president of the company, declared that it is a "sensible provision for being prepared for opportunity that may present itself in the future."

Some financial observers look upon the plan as a step toward the acquisition of the Seiberling Rubber Co., by Goodyear.

INSPECTORS PROBE FATAL BOAT CRASH

Four Dead, Three Others Missing, in Accident to Oregon Excursion Barge.

By The Associated Press

ST. HELENS, Ore., March 31—Federal steamboat inspectors today began an investigation to determine blame for the collision of the excursion barge Swan and the coastwise steamer Davenport in the Columbia river which turned a merrymaking throng of 286 passengers on the pleasure craft into a panic-stricken mob, and resulted in the death of three women and one man.

Three others, two men and a youth, are missing and 12 are in hospitals, suffering various injuries.

The collision occurred early yesterday as the barge, towed by the Dix, was returning to Vancouver, Wash.

Opposite St. Helens, while an orchestra's strains mingled with the laughter of the merrymakers, the prow of the lumber laden steamer Davenport loomed out of the darkness. A woman screamed, there was a deafening crash as the ship plowed into the forepart of the barge, and the tug Dix sank, as the pleasure craft lurched suddenly to the starboard.

Dozens of persons were hurled into the murky waters of the Columbia as the two boats collided. Dozens of others walked over a gang plank to the sandbar when the barge came to rest, while still others escaped death by swimming more than three-quarters of a mile to either the Washington or Oregon shore of the river.

SLAYER EXECUTED

Father of Murder Victim Sees Killer Die in Chair

ROCKVIEW PENITENTIARY, BELLEFONTE, Pa., March 31—Ralph Russell Sloat, 29, today paid with his life in the electric chair for the murder of John Lowry, Scranton taxi-car driver, whose body was found early last year in a little creek in the Keyser valley.

While Bert Lowry, father of the murdered man, looked on, Sloat was strapped in the death chair at 7 o'clock this morning. Robert Elliott, of New York, threw the switch at 7:04 a. m., and Sloat was pronounced dead four minutes later.

Sloat was convicted in Lackawanna county court of Lowry's murder and was sentenced to the electric chair. A desperate fight to the appellate court, through the supreme court and a final effort to have Governor John S. Fisher grant a respite ended in failure.

LOVE FOR DOG LEADS MAN TO U. S. COURT

Patrick Drake Charged with Obstructing Delivery of Mail.

His love for his dog today led Patrick Drake, 871 Sheridan rd., to federal court where he faces a charge of obstructing and retarding the carrying and delivery of the United States mail.

Drake is under indictment of a federal grand jury on the charge and is under $1,000 bond.

Drake is charged with upsetting a mail sack carried by Paul A. Fetter, 188 Bain av., on Jan. 21, after Fetter is said to have struck Drake's dog with a strap.

Fetter said today that the dog lunged at him as he stepped into the Drake yard to deliver mail. He said Drake followed him up the street, jerked the sack from his shoulder, and struck him.

MISSIONARIES HELD BY CHINESE BANDITS

Intensive Hunt for Captives Under Way; China's Brigand Menace Spreads.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, March 31—Captured by brigands, who Thursday raided and looted Yuanchow, western Kiangsi province, three foreign workers of the British China Inland mission today were the objects of an intensive search by fellow missionaries.

Dispatches reporting the Yuanchow outrage were confirmed by the mission at Changsha, Hankow province, and by a mission representative at Sinyu, Kiangsi. Much concern was felt for the safety of the trio, the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Porteus, of England, and Miss N. E. Gemmel, of Girard, Kas., since they were believed to have been captured by the same bandits, who on Feb. 3 kidnaped and presumably murdered three Finnish missionaries. Mrs. Porteus was formerly an American. She came to China in 1904.

Three other missionaries, two women and a man, escaped the bandit attack on Yuanchow by fleeing.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, March 31—Foreign dispatches from Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi province, today said the menace of bandits was increasing and that a general evacuation of foreigners was anticipated.

Possible general evacuation of Kiangsi by missionaries and other foreigners because of the steadily increasing menace of bandits and Communists seemed indicated in various reports from the northern part of the province.

These advices, coming from foreign sources, or from official and missionary quarters, stated that the Communistic bandits which previously had confined their depredations to southern Kiangsi were steadily moving northward and that the whole province now is menaced.

CHAPTER 5

The Rich Miss Grey

THE [illegible] road Jacqueline had traveled to her sudden state of affluence had given her no acquaintance with banks but its intricacies were explained by the manager.

She was impressed by his courtesy and consideration. She signed her name in a big book and received a check-book and the manager explained its mysteries.

Jacqueline marveled at the mighty power of the check-book. She still was a little bit doubtful. She voiced her thought.

"But supposing I wanted a lot—40 or 50 pounds: would they have it now? I mean without having to send out for it?" she added.

"Yes," replied the manager without smiling. "I think the bank is equal even to such a strain as that. But do you want so much? It is rather a lot of money to carry about with you."

"I may be going away shortly," Jacqueline explained. "For a holiday, you see; and as I should be away some weeks, I should want rather a lot of money."

"No need to carry money about with you," the manager returned. "That is the use of a check-book. Pay your bills by check and if you want cash send us a check and we will send treasury notes by registered post."

Jacqueline thanked the manager and with five pounds in her purse walked out. A young man smiled at her. She stared him down coldly.

"Cheek!" she murmured. "A fortune hunter, no doubt!"

Jacqueline went home. Home was an attic room in the less select part of Pimlico. It was about 8 feet by 10, and here Jacqueline had lived since her retreat from Byrams.

The ceiling sloped down to meet the bed. Jacqueline had a habit of opening her eyes and sitting bolt upright with one movement. It was an attribute of extreme youth, but it was not suitable to Mrs. Hubbard's attic room.

Also Jacqueline's morning course of physical exercises, which she had always indulged in at Byrams to the scorn of Emily Gibbs, was somewhat circumscribed. Apart from the limitations of the ceiling, the floor was bare boards, set out with geometrical patterns in tin tacks only half driven in and painful to be on.

"But never mind," said Jacqueline, as the dingy house came in sight. "Mrs Hubbard and that room will soon be a memory of the untamented past, my dear. The thing that never happens has happened."

Mrs. Hubbard admitted her. She was a large woman with about the same amount of expression as a door. There was nothing [illegible] about Mrs. Hubbard's general atmosphere. It was gin and cloves.

At all [illegible] during the week Mrs. Hubbard was disposed to be friendly with her lodgers; but on Saturday [illegible] she became [illegible] the [illegible] hostess.

This was Monday. Jacqueline's bill was unpaid. Now the girl produced a little bundle of treasury notes and peeled one off the top, handing it to the landlady.

Mrs. Hubbard's expression softened momentarily. Jacqueline began to experience the thrill of power which wealth brings.

"[illegible] you would like the first-floor front, my dear?" suggested Mrs. Hubbard. "It'll be empty week after next. There's a sunny aspect in the afternoon between 3 and 5, and the bed's chainspring with an overlay of horse hair—[illegible] lovely—and the carpet's Axminster."

"I'll let you know later, Mrs. Hubbard," said Jacqueline.

"You may call me [illegible], if you like, dear. Most of my lodgers call me mother. They get fond of me and it sounds homely."

Jacqueline fled upstairs. "If only she would stick to gin or to cloves," she murmured. "It's the combination that beats me."

In the attic she sat down and regarded herself in the mirror.

The glass was cracked diagonally, and Jacqueline's little face looked as if it had been sliced in two and imperfectly joined up.

She wagged her finger at this doctored reflection. "Now, look here, Miss Grey, you be careful. You're a rich woman now, and you've got to keep your head. Don't let it get swelled. Just take yourself in hand and don't think you're everybody just because you've got a checkbook.

"Also, don't go persuading yourself that you cut any ice in the way of prettiness, as the Americans put it; because if you do you'll be riding for a spill.

"There's one thing, this glass would take the conceit out of a 50,000 a year [illegible] beauty in about two peeps. Great heavens, child—your nose!"

She flew at the powder-puff and delicately touched up the offending feature. "Of course, it's an affection," she murmured, "but it's yours, my dear, and you've got to make the best of it. Perhaps it's for your good, too. When you're inclined to get a bit above yourself, always remember your nose. It will keep you in your place.

"You're going among the real people now, my girl, and you've got to watch your step. You've got to show them that little Jacqueline can be as good as any of them. If you don't I shall be ashamed of you for ever, and I shall take no further interest in you.

"You ought to be able to carry it off. You've got a few things in your favor—if you haven't a [illegible] looks. You're [illegible] and that's a big [illegible]. You know how to buy your frocks, how to put them on, and how to walk in them when you've got them on—which is what every girl doesn't know. Keswick [illegible] taught you that, [illegible] and 50 as he [illegible] give him his due. That will carry you a long way, but not all the way. You want a little education—not too much—and a lot of intelligence. The point is, have you got enough? The rest you will have to pick up as you go along."

Love's Reawakening

A Wife's Triumph Over Jealousy

BY ADELE GARRISON

MRS. HASBROUCK looked up at me with smiling attention as I came back into the sitting room, where she had said she would wait for me. Something in her look told me that she had shrewdly guessed my request for a little chat had something unusual in it, but there was also a subtle comforting something in her attitude which promised hearty cooperation in anything I wished to do.

"May I close the door?" I asked. "I have something to say which I do not wish overheard."

Her husband, a massive six-footer, with a face as shrewd and kindly as his wife's, rose abruptly from the corner table where he was engaged in a game of Canfield, but I made a protesting gesture.

"I don't mean you, Mr. Hasbrouck," I said. "I shall need your help also."

He crossed the room and pulled a comfortable big chair opposite to his wife, and put me into it.

"You can talk better sitting down," he said, with an infectious, slow grin as he drew his own chair close to us.

"I won't keep you long," I returned, "and I am glad that you know we are friends of your neighbors, the Cosgroves, for I am going to ask something rather odd of you."

"Don't be bashful," Mr. Hasbrouck boomed, as I hesitated. "If you're running short, we'll be your bankers until you get back home."

The Black Roadster

"Keep quiet, Egbert," his wife said a bit tartly, "and let Mrs. Graham have a chance to tell what it is she wants. I guess she knows that whatever it is, we'll do it if it's a possible thing."

"I am sure of that, thank you both," I said. "And I have plenty of money with me. It's a bit more complicated than that, and I must ask you not to speak of what I am going to tell you."

I did not wait for a specific promise, but hurried on, keeping my voice so low that I was sure no possible eavesdropper outside could hear it.

"Mr. and Mrs. Underwood were connected with the government secret service during the war," I began, "and they still are often called upon to aid in special cases. On the way up here Mr. Underwood discovered that a man in a black roadster was trailing our car, but by a ruse he threw him off, but a few miles after we started from New York."

Mr. Hasbrouck brought his clenched fist down upon his knee. His wife leaned forward in her chair, her eyes sparkling.

"A black roadster!" they exclaimed with one voice.

"Yes," I answered quickly, "and I have reason to think that the man is now lodged here. Would you mind describing him to me.

On the Warpath

"Sort of undersized fellow," Mr. Hasbrouck began, but his wife interrupted him summarily.

"Pa calls anybody less than six feet undersized," she said, with a glance at her big husband, which, though it was connubially impatient, still held distinct admiration. "This man is really above medium height, although not much, stocky, with grayish hair that used to be brown—oh, yes, and big feet—or big shoes—I don't know which."

"That's the man," I said, "and my niece saw someone who looked like that standing on the little hillock opposite our room, and watching her through a pair of field glasses."

Mr. Hasbrouck jumped to his feet with his genial face darkened.

"The dirty son of a gun!" he exclaimed. "I'll go up and drag him out of bed this minute, and——"

His wife flashed a glance at him and deftly caught at his coat as he pushed past her.

"You'll sit right down here and cool off," she said, "until you find out what it is Mrs. Graham wants us to do."

"But," Mr. Hasbrouck protested, plainly on the warpath, and I hastened my explanation.

"Please, Mr. Hasbrouck," I said. "I am very grateful for your partisanship, but above all things, I do not want the man roused if there is any chance of his going to sleep. What time did he ask to be called in the morning?"

"Six o'clock, at first," my big host rejoined, "but when he found out the garage didn't open till half-past seven, he said seven."

"Then," I said, "is it impossible for us to leave at four, and to be sure that he will not follow us if he should happen to waken and hear us go?"

Mr. Hasbrouck rose from his chair and flexed his powerful arms. Then he grinned down at me.

"If Ma can get your breakfast," he said, with a sly look at his wife, "I'll guarantee the fellow won't leave the premises till seven."

One Starves And Stays Fat

One Eats And Keeps Thin

YOU see that everywhere. More fat people are careful of their diet. Many are active. Yet they see plenty who stay slender while eating what they wish.

Some years ago, science found the reason in an under-active gland. That gland largely controls nutrition. Since then, physicians the world over have fed that gland substance in treating obesity.

Marmola prescription tablets, prepared by a famous laboratory, contain that factor at its best. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. All can see in every circle how conditions have changed in that time. Only a small percentage now stay over-fat.

Marmola is not secret. Each box contains the formula and the reasons for results. Users know why this is the right way. No starvation is required, though moderation helps.

Perhaps you have found that self-denial fails to make you slender. If so, try Marmola, which has done so much for so many, for so long. Watch the results. They will quickly tell you if this is what you need. Then go on until you reach the normal weight desired. For your own sake, start today.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 a box. Any druggist who is out will gladly order for you.

VINCENT of Paris

beauty expert to society

warns against the wrong kind of soap

. . . "you should use Palmolive"

Beauty experts recognize the need for a soap containing olive oils to keep skin fresh, smooth and lovely

"An irritated skin—you are using the wrong kind of soap, perhaps. Use Palmolive. Its color is the color of palm and olive oils. It has a fresh, natural odor. It not only keeps the skin free of irritations, but it leaves the complexion refreshed and beautiful."

Vincent

to rue Royale

Vincent superintending a facial treatment in his beauty salon on the Rue Royale, Paris. He advises Palmolive, as do so many of his famous colleagues.

"WE particularly stress to all our clients," says Vincent of Paris, "the importance of skin cleansing. That means keeping the skin free of impurities and ready for our special treatment. And for this purpose we recommend just one soap—Palmolive."

Vincent has a very important shop on the Rue Royale, across from the famous Madeleine in Paris. Here he administers to the beauty needs of women of fashion in Paris. And he warns them of the dangers in using the wrong kind of soap.

"You should use Palmolive," he insists, "which is made of pure vegetable oils."

Why skin needs soap and water

Unless impurities and daily accumulations of oil and dirt are removed from the pores, you soon discover blackheads, pimples and enlarged pores, which are some of women's chief beauty grievances.

Palm and olive oils have a singularly beneficial effect on the skin. They cleanse the pores without irritation. They leave the surface of the skin toned up and stimulated, yet they are so gentle, so easy on the skin. That is, undoubtedly, why these fine cosmetic oils have been used by lovely women since Cleopatra's time.

Here is the famous treatment

With both hands work up a fine lather of Palmolive Soap and warm water. Work this tenderly into the skin of face and throat, massaging for about two minutes. Rinse first with warm water, then with cold. In the morning, perhaps you'll need a touch of cream or some kind of astringent before putting on make-up. That is the basis of the home beauty treatment recommended by 19,813 beauty specialists.

For special treatments, you will have, of course, to consult your own expert. But for day in and day out care of the skin, nothing is quite so effective as this simple Palmolive treatment. And since Palmolive costs no more than ordinary soap, millions allow it to do for their entire body what it does so well for the face. Why don't you begin to use it tomorrow?

A vast professional group of 19,813 beauty specialists find one soap best—they all advise Palmolive!

OFFICER HELD AFTER DRY RAID SHOOTING

Bullet Hits Farmer in Back After He Ignores Order for Surrender.

By The Associated Press

RICHMOND, Ky., March 31—Deputy Sheriff Lloyd Lane, admitted slayer of Ambrose Williams, 50, a farmer, shot in the back as he fled when his home was raided yesterday by four officers in search for liquor, faced an inquiry today with indications he would plead justification in that Williams refused his shouted demand to surrender.

In Williams' home, at Crooly Fork, about 11 miles from this central Kentucky seat of Madison county, the officers said they found a small still and a gallon of liquor, and this they had for evidence at the examining trial scheduled for today.

The house is almost exactly on the Madison-Jackson county line, and when the officers approached and exhibited a state search warrant, Williams dashed away, with Lane in pursuit into Jackson county. Several shots were fired at him by Lane.

Deputy United States Marshal Boyd Sandlin said he had run 900 yards, when he fell, pierced in the back by one bullet.

Williams died before a physician arrived.

The bandit then warned them against making any outcry and made them walk straight ahead. When they turned around, the gunman had vanished. The money taken consisted of $6,748 in cash and $400 in checks.

AMATEUR NOTES

TOMORROW marks the [illegible] of the [illegible] county amateur basketball tournament. This year's [illegible] is larger than [illegible] and promises [illegible] teams are [illegible] class A.

There is no doubt that the play will be hotly contested as several teams are anxious to add to laurels already won. In the main division Epworth M. E., Waldo Lutheran and Steam Shovel Engineers seem to have the inside track for the title. Epworth and Waldo meet in the opening round for their class so one of them will not enter the second round. The Engineers drew a bye so they are sure to play in the second round. They have a perfect record in the shop league at the Shovel plant for this year though and may furnish a surprise to the other contenders.

NOW that Waldo [illegible] in her attempt to [illegible] Mansfield [illegible] tournament perhaps she will not [illegible] teams entered in the county [illegible] We wouldn't be surprised if Epworth [illegible] although they will have their hands full [illegible] Waldo seems to have [illegible] considerably from the [illegible] when [illegible] title of the [illegible] church [illegible] Now if Waldo [illegible] about [illegible] the [illegible] I don't think so.

TOURNAMENT play in basketball this year seems to be running later in the season than is usual. Unless some of them decide to quit playing pretty soon they are going to find their dates conflicting with those of outdoor sports. Perhaps it is not quite that bad but it does seem that they are playing an especially long season. Most of the teams have long ago hung up their suits and taken to other sports.

* * *

IN what is [illegible] the last tournament of the year Marion [illegible] under the Y Indians [illegible] will make [illegible] Ann Arbor [illegible] western [illegible] Indians has a great record, having won something like 20 out of 23 games [illegible] Y. M. C. A. championships. They are going to be needing some money to make the trip and in view of their standing in the sport we hope the fans will back them so that they may make the trip. They have an excellent chance to bring home another championship for several of the teams which they have already beaten this year are considered among the strong teams which will be there. BOOST Y INDIANS, THEY DESERVE YOUR SUPPORT.

ANOTHER honor has come to a team under the direction of the Marion Y now that the volleyball team has come through in fairly good fashion to win the second place position in the northern Ohio district. The locals have an enviable record over the past several years. Even though they were beaten in the finals for the district title they will be able to go to the state tournament and many is the time that a runner up team in a district tournament has come through to win bigger contests. Why not Marion?

Steam Shovel Elects New Athletic Officers

The Marion Steam Shovel athletic association has elected officers for the coming year effective tomorrow. W. Johnson, general foreman of the foundry department will be the new president with W. Wertz of the stock department acting as vice president. Paul Boyd of the engineering division is the new secretary and Frank Kem, [illegible] employment manager is treasurer.

The athletic department is at present the largest in the history of the company having a membership of nearly 1,200 employees.

REVENGE IS SWEET

LOS ANGELES, Calif., March 31—The pitching of "Fireball" Joe Bush in particular and the batting of the Chicago Cubs in general today were held responsible for the revenge the Cubs are enjoying following their 13-to-7 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. In six innings the Pirates yesterday took just a pair of singles from Bush while the Cubs' bats were rapping them far and wide.

REGULAR GOES TO BENCH

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, March 31—Lester Bell who was obtained to do regular third base duty for the Chicago Cubs, may turn out to be a substitute for Clarence Blair. Blair, the handy man of the 1929 National league championship Cubs, was sent to third base last week when Bell's arm went wrong and all during the Pittsburgh series his play, both batting and fielding, outshone that of any man on the club. The Cubs finally got the combination yesterday and defeated the Pirates, 13 to 7. [illegible]

AL SIMMONS AND (left) ROGERS HORNSBY, WHO WERE BASEBALL'S MOST VALUABLE PLAYERS IN 1929

Two of baseball's greatest hitters and winners of the most valuable awards for their leagues last season. Hornsby and Simmons will be out to again capture the honors this year. Al is probably the only real batter who is a "foot in the bucket" hitter. Hornsby holds no such record as this for his batting stance is the very essence of form.

"I used to be quite a player, Joe. But I reckon I'm getting old now. Gosh! I envy those young chaps who are having all the fun."

"That's the old bunk. There's fun all through life if a man knows how to get it. You can't have fun at anything if your feet bother. I made myself young again with Arch Preserver Shoes. It's a great way to cut out the grouches."

Selecting the Casket

THE casket is, ordinarily, the largest single item of expense in the cost of a funeral. Probably no other purchase involving a like sum of money must be decided on in so short a period of time.

There are many different types of caskets, made from many different materials. Many different manufacturers make them. They sell at many different prices. To purchase a casket so high in price that it will mean future denial to widow, children or other heirs is misguided sentimentality. On the other hand, there is a certain standard of living to which each is accustomed. To fall below this—unless for urgent need of economy—is just as deplorable as the other extreme.

NAPOLEON, March 31—T. J. Ea 58, prominent Ohio hotel man, his home here today. He the Joy hotel at Findlay Wellington hotel here and for years was president of the county fair association.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Marion market prices were firm this morning. Saturday prices, with exception of specials, were in force.

The strawberry supply has been weak for several days and the price has had a tendency to go higher. This is due to the ending of the strawberry season in northern Florida, where the first berries were grown.

Tennessee will furnish the next supplies to be sold here, grocers say. The Tennessee crop will be on the market in a few weeks, sending prices considerably lower and furnishing the market with a good supply.

Federal Grand Jury May Probe "Jake" Sales

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, March 31—Government employes today said the federal grand jury which convenes here tomorrow may investigate sales of Jamaica ginger which is believed by many physicians to have caused scores of paralysis cases in southern Ohio.

Prohibition agents have seized Jamaica ginger samples here and in Covington, Ky. Under cover agents have made numerous purchases of the liquid and were reported to have said the sellers, in nearly all instances, gave instructions how to dilute the ginger for drinking purposes.

Lost since 1853, the original sketch proposed for the first London-printed stamps of Tasmania was found recently in a waste-paper basket during a clearance of old correspondence at the British Inland Revenue Office.

Lawyer Reenacts Trial of Christ in Church Talk

A large attendance at First Reformed church heard Attorney J. H. Eymon talk on "The Trial of Jesus From a Lawyer's Viewpoint." In an interesting manner he went over all the trials of Christ, arranging them as a lawyer would bring them before the court of appeals. He showed how the laws of Jesus time guarded the persons accused, by saying that men were innocent until proven guilty. He went on to show how the trial of Jesus was nothing at all in keeping with the laws of his time.

LAST NIGHT at the THEATERS

Garbo Talks in Anna Christie

SOME will like Anna Christie and [illegible] but people who like dramatic talkies [illegible] with stark moments [illegible] now and [illegible] had Garbo's Anna Christie [illegible] of the best dramatic [illegible] of the screen in months.

The [illegible] theater was breathless when Greta made her first appearance yesterday afternoon and the audience was to hear this Scandanavian star speak for the first time. It was a deep throaty voice almost as deep as [illegible] and sometimes when the words begin to [illegible] first [illegible] a smattering of a Swedish accent given to them. It was a voice [illegible] with Garbo.

There were three persons in the picture whose lives were [illegible] found up in the story and Marie Dressler who deserves another [illegible] for the [illegible] character part of Marthy.
